Funding Opportunities for Educational Courses and Student Research Experiences

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) has a funding mechanism labeled "R25," which is used in several different ways—to fund courses for skill development, student research experiences, mentoring, and other research-adjacent activities.

Find below a selection of R25 funding opportunities from NIH that have upcoming deadlines *(note that opportunities may be renewed after the last deadline indicated, so see highlighted note below about searching for future R25 funding):

- Short Courses in Social Determinants of Health for Research Education in Nursing Research

- Short-Term Research Education Program to Enhance Diversity in Health-Related Research (from the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute)

- Galvanizing Health Equity Through Novel and Diverse Educational Resources (GENDER) Research Education

- Undergraduate Research Education Program (UP) to Enhance Diversity in the Environmental Health Sciences

- Providing Research Education Experiences to Enhance Inclusivity for a Diverse Substance Use and Addiction Scientific Workforce

- Modules for Enhancing Biomedical Research Workforce Training

- Cancer Research Education Grants Program - Research Experiences (related opportunities for Courses for Skills Development and Curriculum or Methods Development)

- NIAID Research Education Program Advancing the Careers of a Diverse Research Workforce (from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases)

- NIH Neuroscience Development for Advancing the Careers of a Diverse Research Workforce

You can find more of these opportunities now, and in the future, by visiting the NIH Grant Funding database and check-boxing "R25" under the "Activity Code" filtering option on the left-hand side of the screen.
