Dear Shaun

Thank you for enrolling in an honors seminar class this semester. I hope your experience has been positive and productive.

You will have an opportunity to provide feedback about this course through the NSU Course Evaluation tool; which will be available starting April 23. Your feedback regarding this course is important to me. Courses are enhanced based on student comments and recommendations. The evaluation process is anonymous and confidential; faculty will not receive aggregate reports until after all grades are posted.

Please feel free to contact me if you have comments or questions about your honors seminar class.

Dear Shaun,

Thank you for enrolling in an honors seminar class this semester. Evaluations for Winter Term courses are now available. Each evaluation will take less than 10 minutes to complete. These evaluations are 100% confidential, and faculty will not receive results until after final grades have been posted.

Please use this link <https://nova.campuslabs.com/courseeval/> which will be available between now and April 30, 2017.

If you have any questions or difficulties with the course evaluation tool, please contact my assistant, Estee Carrasquillo, at Ecarrasqui@nova.edu. Your feedback is very important and we thank you for your participation.

Dear Professor Cowman

Thank you for teaching an HONR seminar course this winter semester. Your commitment to honors education is very much appreciated.

Later this month, students in your honors class will be invited to complete a course evaluation regarding their experience in this class. Students are more likely to participate if they know that faculty members are interested in the feedback and comments provided. Please let students know that completing the survey helps improve the academic experience for students and faculty. This is particularly the case with HONR seminars. A supplemental set of questions is presented for HONR courses seeking feedback on core outcomes and 'what makes this course distinct as an honors course.'

Students will receive a separate invitation to participate in the evaluation. Course evaluations will open for student action on April 23 (and will close prior to the start of the exam week).

You will have access to results of student evaluations in May.

Please contact Dean Don Rosenblum with any questions about the evaluation process.
